"Be Proud, Be Provine" Greets Sophomores

Provine halls were bustling with activity before school officially started. Throughout the summer juniors and seniors met to plan and organize the first major activity of the school year, Provine's second annual Sophomore Orientation.

On Tuesday, August 26, the newly-arriving sophomores were taken on guided tours of the building and were treated to a coke party on the patio. During the first week, various skits such as "Silly Sally Sophomore" and "Yuk-Yuk" introduced the sophs to the numerous phases of a typical Ram's life, and made them realize the vital part they played in the life of Provine.

Learning and practicing new cheers and routines kept Provine's eight zealous cheerleaders busy for endless hours. At the Mid-South Cheerleader Clinic, held at the University of Mississippi, they won a superior trophy, five superior ribbons, and two spirit sticks. Their bouyant spirit inspired the Rams by boosting school morale. Tasks performed by the cheerleaders included selling pep ribbons and car stickers and sponsoring a Falcon Hunt.

The Pep Club consisting of forty girls chosen for their ardent school spirit, aided the cheerleaders in many areas. By painting signs and goal posts and performing routines and skits at pep rallies, they displayed to Provine their loyalty and support. Their vivacious yells showed that they had put in many vigorous sessions after school.

Student Council Places Limits on Office Holders

As the 1970 school year began, it found the Provine Student Council sedulously preparing for the seemingly long year ahead. Meeting every Tuesday during activity period, the council charted the policies of the student body as resolutions and decisions were passed through lively debate.

Among the various activities undertaken was a limitation of offices bill, which prohibited students from gaining too many student body offices. The council also sponsored the Beat Wingfield Week, the Elton Moore Fund, and the Homecoming Week. They sold refreshments at the athletic activities, too.

Amidst its regular activities the Student Council found time to host the Mississippi Association of Student Council Convention and acted as its state treasurer.

Erudite Seniors Achieve Scholastic Honors

Taking the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in February, 1969, Anne Shoemake was Provine's Representative as a National Merit Semi-finalist. Two other students, Nancy Tipton, and James Ray Hutchins, were awarded letters of commendation for their high scores.

Anne Shoemake being active in all school activities accepted the responsibility of filling out numerous forms for scholarship purposes, taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test and writing essays concerning her chief interests, extracurricular activities and major accomplishments.

Nancy Tipton and James Ray Hutchins participated in all of Provine's activities both academically and extracurricular.

To become National Merit Finalists the semi-finalists had to score in the upper six percent on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

ims Reigns During Homecoming Festivities

Hughes Field once again marked the setting for Provine's fourteenth annual Homecoming game. Despite the fact the Rams faced a grueling defeat on the gridiron the night still maintained its tradition of excitement, school spirit and beautiful girls.

Continuing another tradition the 1970 Homecoming Court was nominated and elected by the entire student body. The maids — sophomore Christy Chappa, junior Irene Kountouris, and seniors Charlotte Peyton, Toula Zouboukos and Theresa Sims — were presented to the stands in a convertible parade and were escorted through the traditional ivy-covered archway. Anxiety mounted as each girl took her place on the field waiting for the announcement of the queen. The moment arrived and Mr. Sessums crowned Theresa Sims, 1970 Homecoming Queen.

Deserving Seniors Reap Honors for Service

Gazing into the future, the numerous civic and historical organizations perceived a government run by today's generation of young leaders. To stimulate a continuation of the development of good citizenship the organizations bestowed honors upon the outstanding Provine Students. The local chapter of Civitan International honored those students who demonstrated their ability as good citizens.

To spotlight students who possessed a record of leadership accomplishments the Pilot Club chose many Provinians to receive their club's award.

Provine once again gained recognition for outstanding leadership at Girls' and Boys' State, JCL National Convention and JHS State Convention.

Scholastic-minded students competed in numerous language and scholastic aptitude tests for furthering their education.

NSPA Convention Highlights Trips, Travels

Jetting to the windy city of Chicago, designing yearbook cover in Dallas, participating in sensitivity groups in Blue Ridge, North Carolina, and attending state and local conventions and workshops kept various Provine Students on the move.

Student Council members carried delegates to Savannah, Georgia, where ideas were exchanged for promoting effective student councils in high school.

A highlight of trips was NSPA Convention in Chicago where students not only attended publication workshops, but also had an opportunity to tour sites of Chicago and attend the Broadway Show "Hair."

Martha Armstrong, Provine Junior, represented the National Convention in New Orleans, Louisiana. Anne Roberts represented Provine at Girls' State held at Belhaven College here in Jackson.

The yearbook staff attended workshops at Ole Miss and University of Southern Mississippi.

Underclassmen Accentuate "I've Gott'a Be Me'

The sounds of the circus, the antics of the animals, the color of the big top, and the enthusiasm of the band all combined to lead the sophomores through a rousing Class Capers hit.

Turning the entrance to the auditorium into a small town main street, the sophomores opened with a spectacular parade displaying all the grandeur that a circus parade and band holds. Moving to the stage, the greatest show continued its boisterous manner with every facet of the circus in motion.

As the show unfolded, the audience found themselves feeling sorry for the circus animals who wanted to become people. A feat of magic permitted this but as the show continued everyone was able to understand the true meaning of "I've Gotta Be Me."

Historical Skit Merits 2nd Place for Juniors

A historical setting with all its political controversy and pomp and pious characters depicted a three-night run of liberty, constitution spoof, and independence.

"I Do Declare" carried the audience and judges back to the days of our forefathers and the problems in getting the Declaration of Independence written and signed.

Adding spice to the rendition were colorful costumes, well-cast characters, and rousing arrangements of modern songs and dances set to original words and motion. A live portrait of "Whistler's Mother" and "The Spirit of Freedom" with a combination of satire and acrobatic antics kept the audience well amused.

A rousing finale of "Exodus accompanied with the ringing of the liberty bell and scenes of history rounded an evening of full entertainment.

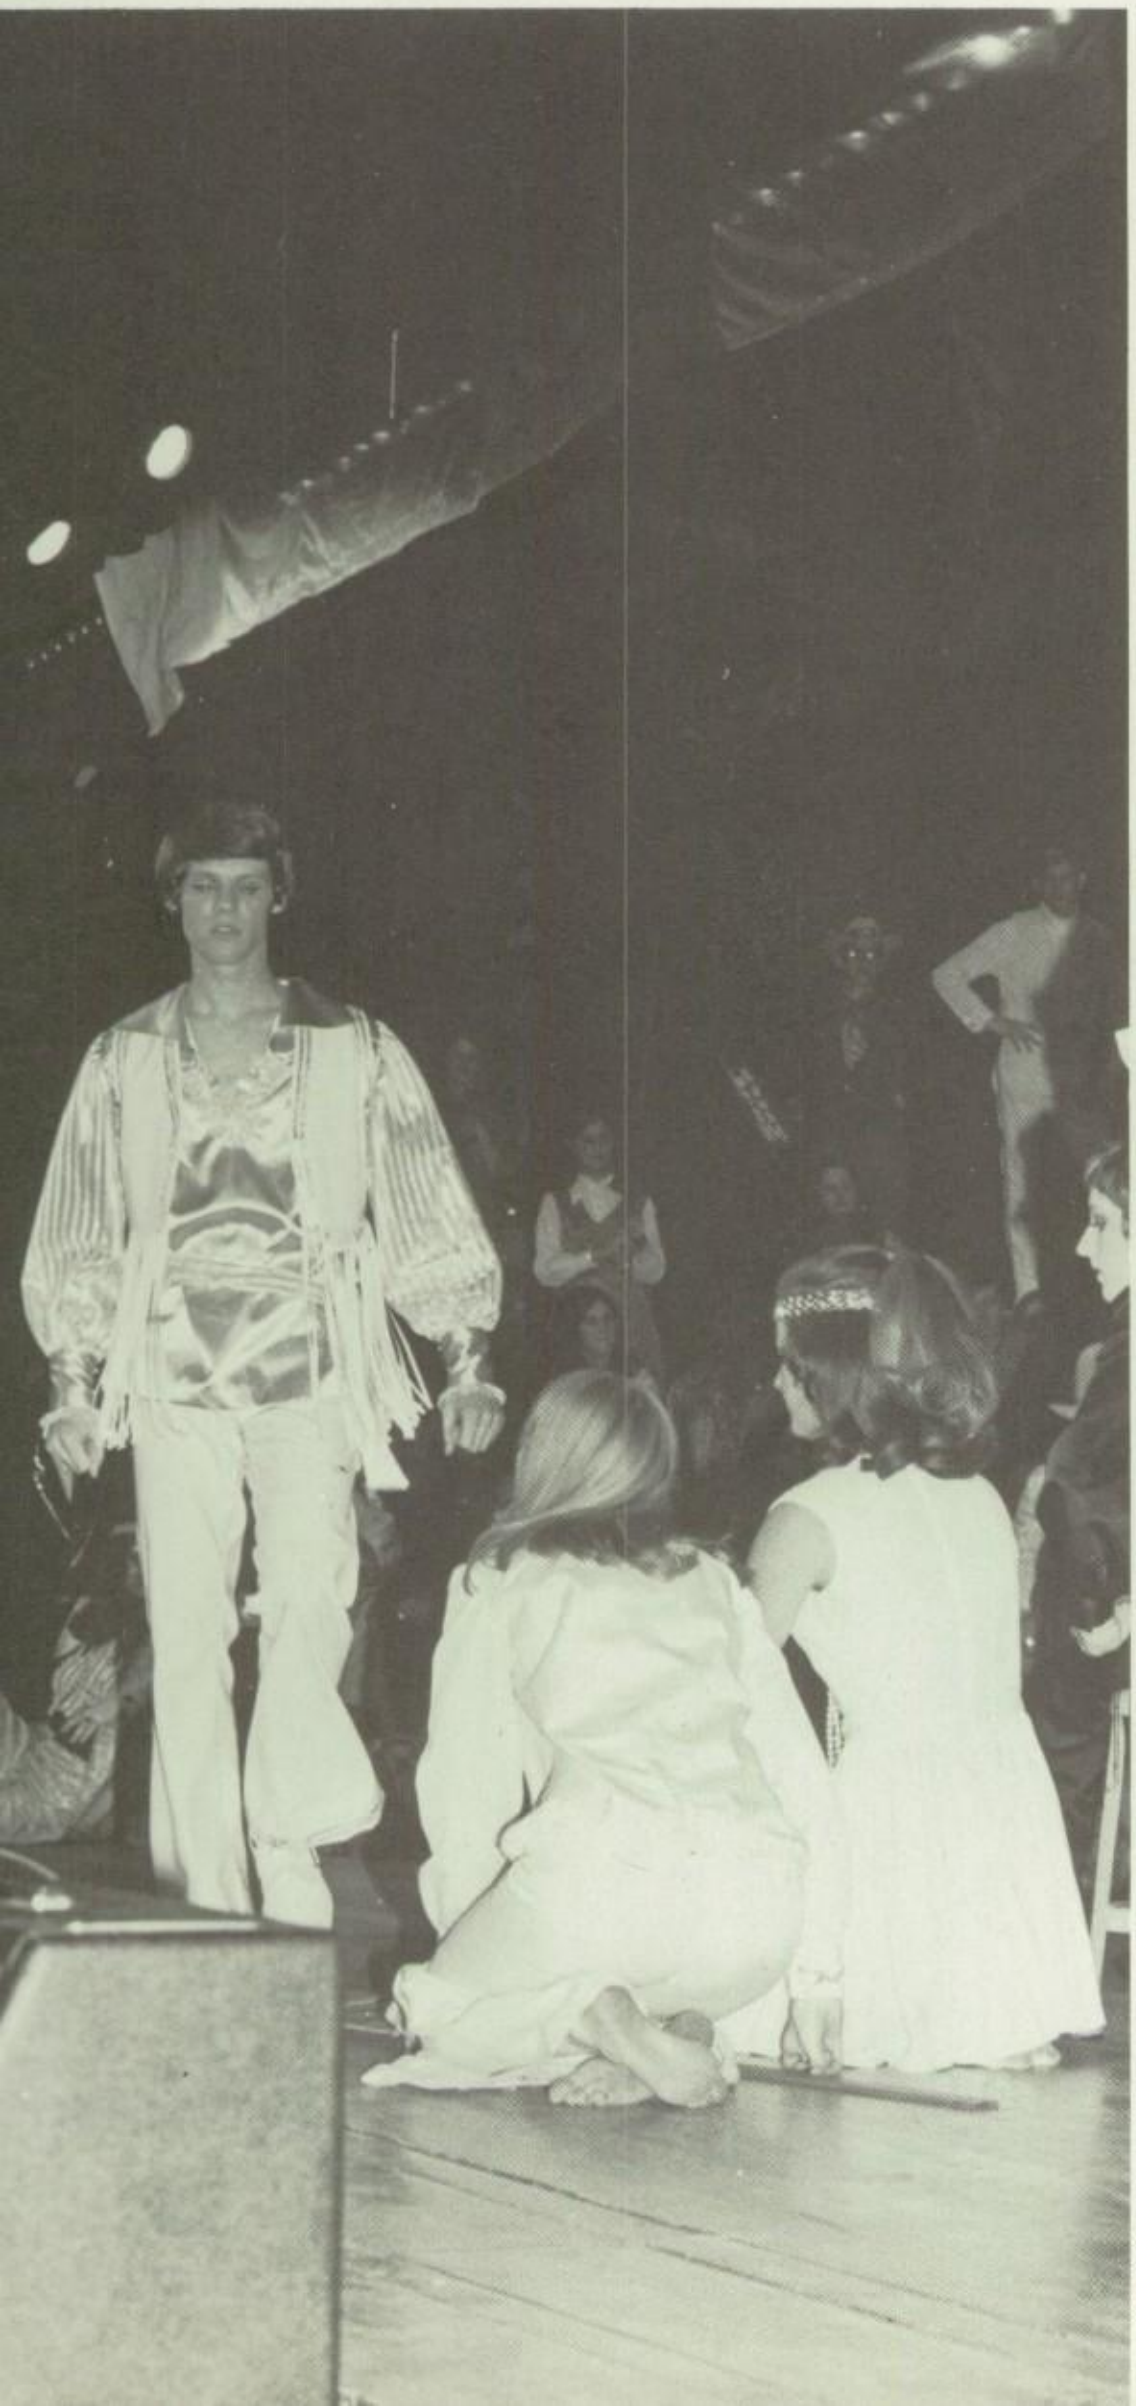
Senior Class of 1970 Takes Highest Honor, Proclaimed Number One by Audience-Judges



With a colorful rendition of a junkie convention and a tragic ending spiced with a moral lesson for all young people, the Senior Class of 1970 stirred the audience and judges each night of the three-night run and gained their place on the Class Capers Plaque as number one winners.

The setting for the comedy-tragedy centered around the year 1980 when men had supposedly forgotten reality. The audience experienced a freak out by young people seeking to find themselves. Combining color, satire, and modern song and dance, the show placed the audience in the midst of junkies, drugs, and "trips."

A highlight of the show left the audience greatly moved by an inspiring arrangement of "Who Will Answer?"

Beauties and Beaus Vie for 1970 Aries Title

Beginning a new tradition at Provine, sixteen boys were added to the Aries Beauty Pageant and competed for the title of Most Handsome.

The judges who selected the winners were Mr. Kenneth Quinn, Mrs. Betsy Cook, and Mrs. Dorothy Stevens.

Providing entertainment for the pageant were Miss Gaye Parks, a Provine teacher, B. C. Jones of Murrah, George Fields, Howard White, the Provine Rampagers, and the Provine Stage Band.

Acting as master of ceremonies, Mark Ledbetter from WLBT announced Becky Bias, Debbie Harris, and Kay Weathersby as beauties, and Danny Brantley, Corky Lee, and Newton Roberts as runners-up to Most Handsome.

The Pageant was climaxed by the presentation of Brenda Johnson as Most Beautiful and Charley Smith as Most Handsome.

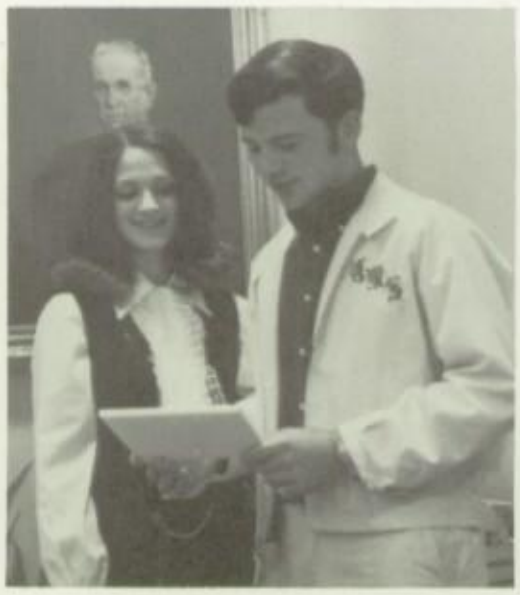
Seniors Brenda Johnson and Charley Smith were named Most Beautiful and Most Handsome at the Aries Beauty Pageant.

Senior Deb•e Harris was selected as a beauty at the Aries Beauty Pageant, and Corky Lee and Newton Roberts were named as beaus.

Chosen as beauties were Becky Bias and Kay Weathersby. Danny Brantley was one of the runners-up to Most Handsome.

Quarterback Anthony Saway and homecoming maid Christy Chappa were elected Mr. and Miss Sophomore Class by their fellow classmates in the Aries Who's Who.

Selected to represent the juniors as Mr. and Miss Junior Class were junior class president John Milner and homecoming maid Irene Kountouris.

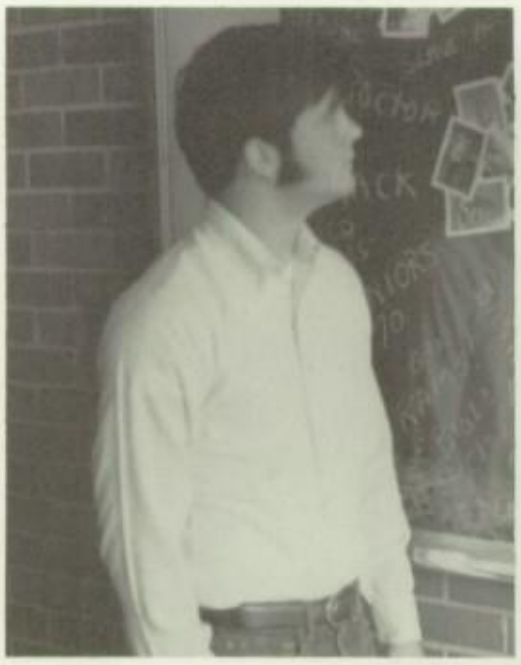


Elected Mr. and Miss Senior Class were Charley Smith, vice-president of the student body, and Theresa Sims, homecoming queen.

Seniors Beverly Buckley and Glenn Allen were awarded Most Intellectual honors by virtue of their high scholastic averages.

Chosen as favorites by popular vote of the senior class were Susan Lundquist, a beauty contestant, and Daryl Ainsworth, vice-president of the senior class.

Also selected as favorites of the senior class were homecoming maid Toula Zouboukas and Johnny Barlow, an active Hi-Y participant and basketball player.



Lee Nutt, Hi-Y vice-president and recipient of the Percy Powers Football Award, was elected by the senior class as Mr. Provine.

Co-head cheerleader and two-year homecoming maid Charlotte Peyton, through her dedication and school spirit, was elected Miss Provine.

Change in City Hall, Martin Heads Schools

In his first year as Superintendent of Education Dr. John Martin was the controlling impetus of Jackson's City Council, consisting of the mayor and two commissioners, assisted the school board in the establishment of policies and in the direction of the activities of Jackson's sixty public schools. Mr. Tom Kelly, one of the city commissioners, steadfastly supported Provine through his work as president of the Provine Booster Club.

Exemplifying authority and dignity, Provine's two top officials served as vanguards in times of trial. Mr. David Sessums, principal, sustained the school program, hired new teachers, and supervised instruction. Mr. William Purvis, assistant principal, managed ticket sales, issued textbooks and lockers and handled attendance problems.

Ram Faculty Confirm Educational Atmosphere

While maintaining Provine's rank as a leader in Mississippi high school education, the Provine faculty established an enlightening, informal atmosphere for their students. In this atmosphere teachers attempted to instill in pupils the desire to learn and urged them to take advantage of their valuable educational opportunities.

Six new teachers joined the other forty staff members in the daily routines of checking papers, planning lesson assignments, up-dating grade books, and monitoring halls before school. In addition to their regular duties, teachers sold tickets at ballgames, sponsored clubs, served as departmental chairmen, supervised student practice-teachers, and chaperoned out-of-town trips. Four times during the year faculty members participated in the In-Service Training Program.

New Grammar Bridges Communication Gap

Thirty classes of literature and grammar provided a wide variety of study for Provine's 750 students enrolled in English classes. Sophomores explored the new approach to grammar, presented in the Modern Grammar and Composition Series. Films and dramatizations emphasized the study of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar, and units on Greek and Roman mythology were highlighted.

Junior English placed special emphasis on "our American heritage in Literature." Works such as William's "Glass Menagerie, " Wilder's The Bridge of San Luis Rey and short stories by Welty and Faulkner enriched literary experiences.

Senior English stressed composition, the new linguistics, and English literature. Research papers and creative writing units helped to improve communication skills.

Orators, Debaters Master Phonetics

Under the direction of Mrs. Eva McDonald, the Debate Team concentrated on the National Debate Topic, "Resolved: that Congress should prohibit unilateral United States, military intervention into foreign countries." In preparation for their tournaments, the four team members learned more about the commitments of the United States, the results and costs of unilateral interventions, and about Vietnam. The orators journeyed to Memphis, Mississippi State College for Women, Mobile, and Birmingham to compete in tournaments. On January 24 and 25, Provine hosted its first two-day tournament.

Speech students under the capable instruction of Mr. Ralph Gordon wrote constitutions, studied drama and phonetics, delivered speeches, and trained in parliamentary procedure.

New Look, New Sponsor Depict 1970 Aries

With the hopes of a second All American Honor rating, the editors and sponsor of the 1970 Aries jetted to Dallas, Texas, in the early spring with their own ideas for the layout of this year's annual.

Under the leadership of a new sponsor, Mr. Donny Hopkins, the 1970 Aries struggled to success. Pictures were taken and retaken; copy, captions, and layout were revised many times before the staff fashioned the true story of the 1970 school year at Provine.

In the desire for new ideas in editing an annual, seven staffers spent Thanksgiving in Chicago discussing innovations with other staffs from over the nation. While in Chicago the staff learned new means and concepts for an even greater 1970 Aries.

Rambler Spotlights Provine High News Media

Provine's All-American newspaper maintained its award-winning record for the fourteenth consecutive semester. The Rambler maintained its outstanding place in the world of high school newspapers despite such necessary changes as new sponsors, an expanded art staff, the appointment of a junior as assistant editor, and the alteration of the editorial board.

The Rambler made notable contributions at workshops locally and across the state. Rambler staffers and sponsors voiced national interest by jetting to the National Scholastic Press Association Convention in Chicago.

Staff photographers, writers, and ad salesmen brought honor to themselves and to Provine by assembling a paper described as unique, clever, and most adventuresome in the journalistic world of high school news.

Literary Book Gets New Look

In the quest to meet the challenging views of the student body, the 1969-70 Palladian took on a new look this year. Returning to free art, the publication was updated without completely breaking away from tradition.

Although much work was done at the beginning of the year in the planning of the magazine, the last semester was devoted to reviewing the various types of composition submitted by the students at Provine. The writings came under three categories — prose nonfiction, prose fiction, and poetry. This year, in addition to being ranked first, second, or third place, cash prizes were awarded to the manuscripts in each category that received the judges' highest ratings.

Scribes Strive Toward Superior Publications

Composed of juniors and seniors with a B average who were members of one of Provine's three publication staffs, the Purser Hewitt Chapter of Quill and Scroll sustained its high standards as one of Provine's honor clubs. Its main objectives was to advance in journalistic qualities through continuous training. Climaxing the year was the initiation banquet held in the spring on the patio.

The Rambler Club and the Palladian Club consisted of members of the respective staffs, who used this valuable time to work towards a dreaded deadline.

The Aries Club was organized to train pupils who were not on the staff but were interested in becoming members. Regular staffers were able to work on their annual assignments at these meetings.

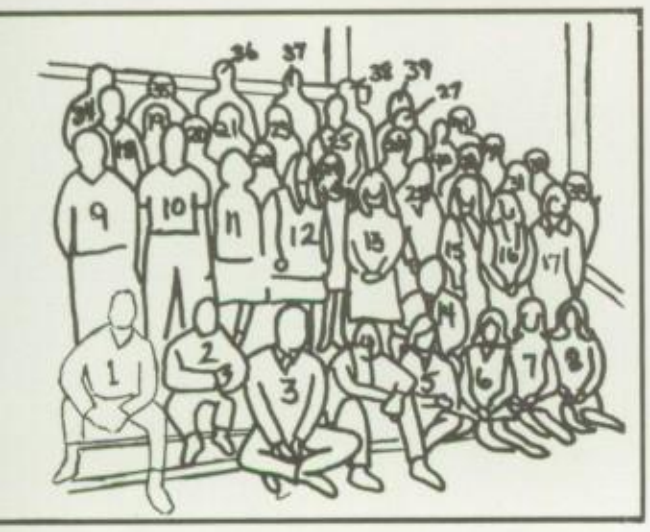
National J.C.L. Convention Fosters New Ideas



UPPER PICTURE: After returning from the NJCL Convention, Martha Armstrong discusses the highlights of the trip with Mrs. Bender.

With the return of utilization of the speech laboratory, Latin students were able to discover the language and culture of ancient Rome. Provine's delegation to the National Junior Classical League, held at Tulane University during the summer, introduced a new approach to make Latin more interesting.

In October first-year students were sold as slaves to old J.C.L. members. Their servitude lasted four days. These students were formally initiated into the Junior Classical League in December.

In the spring delegates attended the state convention at Mississippi College. The two day convention featured a Roman banquet in which Roman costumes were worn. Prizes were given for the best projects and for the highest scores on various tests.

Students Explore French Language, Customs

Boasting an enrollment of sixty pupils this year, the Provine French Department provided many students with an interesting and thorough study of the French language. With the aid of brand new textbooks, students were able to acquire a good working knowledge of French grammar and vocabulary. The use of the language lab was also a valuable aid to their study.

Throughout the year the students corresponded with French pen-pals, writing and receiving letters in both French and English. In this way, each student gained a valuable understanding of the customs, attitudes, and manner of living of the French people.

One of the highlights of the year was the learning and singing of familiar Christmas carols in French.

Spanish Stresses Daily Participation

The facts that Mexico is one of our neighboring countries and that Spanish is a modern foreign language were reasons which encouraged many students to become more interested in the Spanish language taught at Provine by Mrs. Ann Bridges. Observing movies and slides about Spanish-speaking countries and their inhabitants aided pupils in acquiring knowledge of Spanish life. Skills gained in the study of the language were put to a test when students read Mexican magazines and newspapers. A highlight of the year was the singing of the most popular Christmas carols in Spanish in a groupsing in the auditorium. These numerous activities helped to cultivate a deeper understanding and interest in the language, but also added to the individual student's enjoyment of Spanish.

Junior Historians Visit the Crescent City

This year's Social Studies Department, bolstered by Mr. Gullette, a new addition to the staff, remained active in the life of Provine.

While sophomores explored the various areas of world history, the juniors pondered over the rise of the American nation in their study of American history. Seniors studied government for one semester and chose between economics, world geography, or business law for their other semester's studies.

The Junior Historical Society, sponsored by Mrs. Pauline Akers and Mrs. Beryl Williams, toured historical landmarks in New Orleans and attended the annual state Junior Historical Society Convention in March. Meeting on the fourth Thursday of each month, members listened to interesting lectures and saw informative slides and films.

Davis Addresses

MAΘ Members

Mathematics had a strong curriculum even though it was not a course required for graduation. Over twenty-three classes of mathematics were taught, including Geometry, Algebra I and II, Advanced Math, Accelerated Math, and Basic Math.

The Mu Alpha Theta, a national honorary mathematics club, catered to those who showed interest in mathematics. The thirty-nine new members were initiated at an impressionable candlelight ceremony held at Primos Northgate. The mayor of Jackson, Russell Davis, addressed the initiates and old members.

Twice during the year the club traveled to places of interest. In February the state convention at Biloxi was well represented by the Provine members and in March they visited the Math Department at the University of Mississippi.

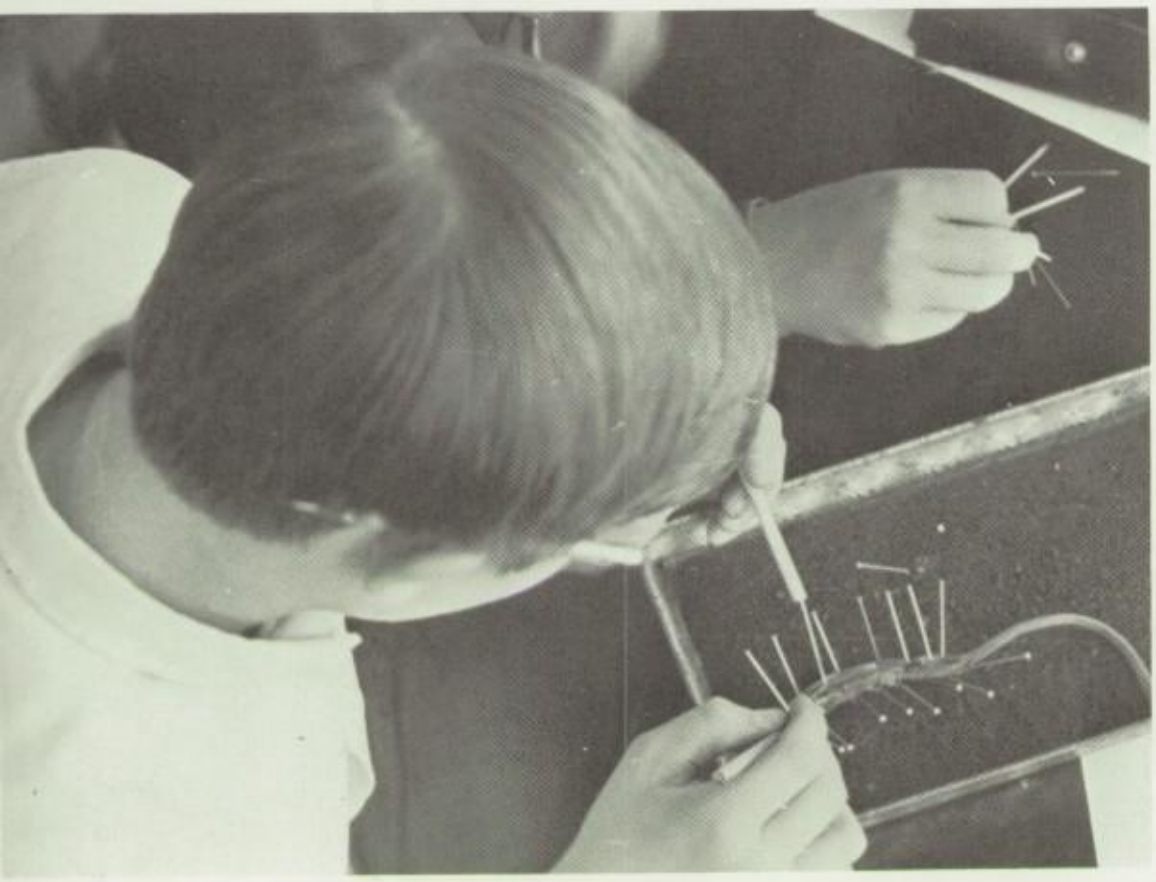
Investigation Makes Science a Dynamic Study



Provine's Science Department offered science enthusiasts chances to advance in the study of human reproduction, puzzling formulas in Chemistry, and the discovery of the make-up of different machines.

Biology classes could be distinguished from other classes by the scent of formaldehyde and models of skulls, hearts, and lungs.

Mrs. Calvert, physics and chemistry teacher, taught her students to think for themselves and to achieve a feeling of accomplishment. Mrs. Calvert encouraged the Junior Engineering Technical Society to be more active by participating in field trips such as the one to the Rex Brown Industries made in the fall.

Future Nurses were well organized and constructive. One job they undertook was adopting a family and providing it with toys and food at Christmas.

Musicians Garner Additional Honors

The year 1969-70 resulted in another sensational year for the nationally famous Provine High School Band. Taking over the football field at half-time, the Provine Band presented fanfares of rousing marches and executed their famed precision marching. Serving as the main source of energy and enthusiasm for the student body, the Ram band played an important role in sparking school spirit at pep rallies. In order to raise money for their trip to Enid, Oklahoma, band members again sold candy and calendars and ushered at several activities held at the Mississippi Coliseum.

After the marching season ended, the band focused its attention on the concert and stage bands, which performed concerts at banquets and junior high assembly programs.

Rampagers, Choir Earn Distinction

During the course of the year the seventy-voice Provine Concert Choir, smartly attired in tuxedoes and pink dresses, earned wide-spread fame and recognition for themselves and for Provine. Under the able direction of Mr. Jay Jones, the choir performed over fifty concerts, including such features as numerous Christmas concerts for various churches, performances at the City Auditorium and the Mississippi Art Gallery, the presentation of a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, and concerts at high schools and colleges.

The widely renowned Rampagers, together for the second year and boasting colorful costumes and eight new members, again earned much acclaim by performing for various civic groups.

The spirited group capped off a busy and successful year with a tour in the spring.

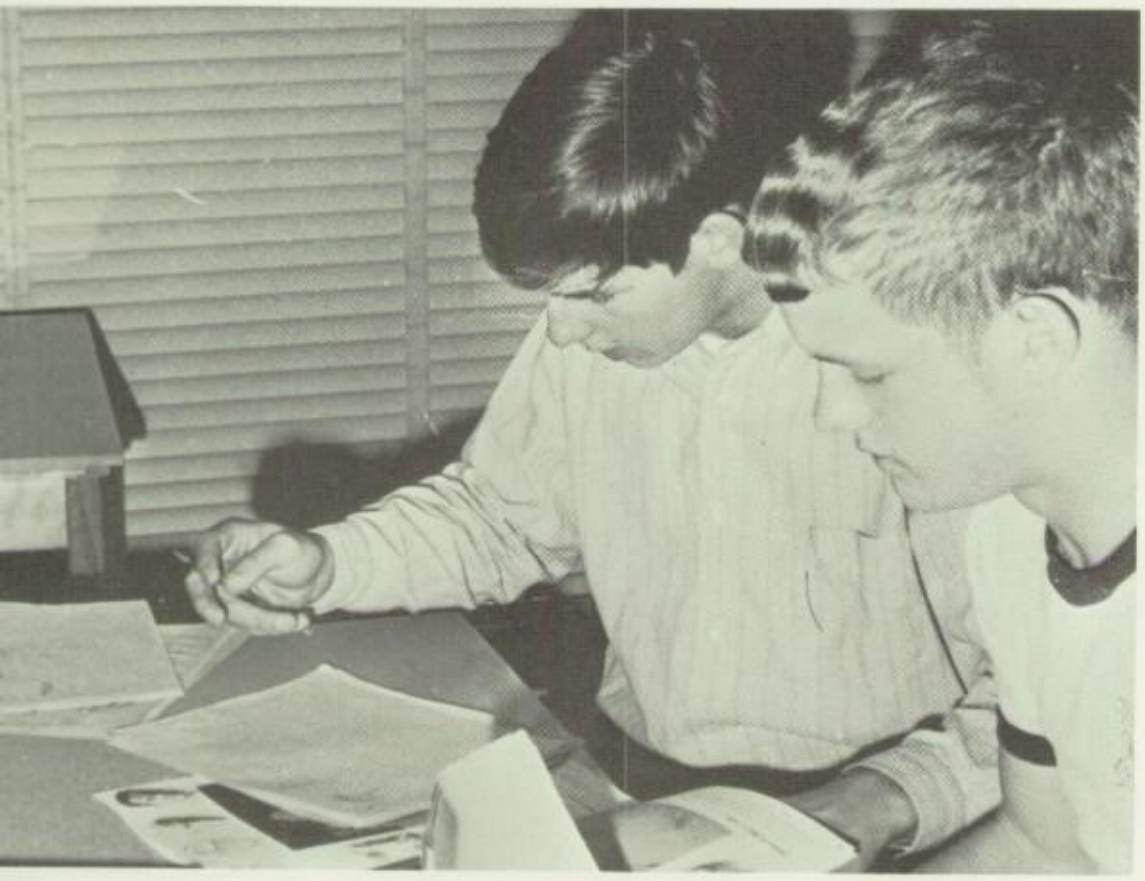
Artists Receive National Recognition, Awards



Co-operating for the second year with art instructor, Mr. Bennie Hollingsworth, the Provine artists, numbering 200, ran the gamut from gesture drawing and sculpture to water color and oils.

Through original trains of thought, the Provine dabblers found themselves creating works of art in the shape of surrealism as well as realism.

Splashers also found themselves at many contests throughout the school year, including the Misissippi Arts Festival and the National Scholastic Art Awards competition. Working with the Art Club, the artists traveled to many points of interest within the state and participated in numerous "Flea Markets."

In recognition for its excellent abilities, the department was awarded a citation of honor from the National Scholastic Art Association.

Shorthand Offers Additional Skills

Striving to prepare students for their future vocations, this year's electives included typing, health, business, mechanical drawing and shorthand, a Provine first. These courses served to further individual specialization, while spurring student interest in the various job opportunities awaiting them after graduation.

In addition to the regular typing course offered at Provine, shorthand was made available to senior girls with a B average in English. Skills gained in this field under the competent guidance of Mrs. Joy Russell proved valuable in note taking.

Business students gained training in the transaction of their own negotiations, while those studying health acquired knowledge in hygiene and nutrition. Mechanical drawing pupils made architectural plans and studied three dimensional drawings.

Sewing, Cooking Train Future Homemakers

Timing themselves for a coming out party at Thanksgiving, homemaking students skillfully sewed their own ensembles. First year students made hand-fashioned winter cottons, while second year students made tailored suits. Third year girls worked on wool suits with silk and crepe linings.

Students spent the three weeks before Christmas making decorations, cookies, and plum puddings for the holidays. After Christmas, all classes went on a cooking spree with last minute entertaining which included everything from tea parties to full course dinners. March was the month to make decorative sugar Easter eggs, and in May family management and personal development were studied. Throughout the year films and field trips helped to break the monotony of regular classwork and furthered knowledge of domestic skills.

One of the most active clubs at Provine, and by far the largest the Future Teachers of America attempted to promote an interest in the teaching profession. Members of the club participated in American Education Week by presenting each teacher an apple, by serving as ushers for lost parents on Back-to-School Night, and by entertaining the faculty with coffee hour. Raising money for patients at Whitfield was their Christmas project. In the spring, members of the club visited the various elementary schools in the city and observed the procedures involved in working with grade-school children.

Y-Teens formed a basketball team and played their games at the YWCA. Activities of the year included selling potato chips for their main fund-raising project and an overnight party.

Equipped Library Is Specified Media Center

Major changes were made in the media center this year. All types of information were at the students' disposal in the form of magazines, films, records, and tapes. Records and tapes were checked out overnight to aid students in studying English and foreign languages. A filmstrip previewer was placed on a small table with a variety of educational films. Pictures and holiday ideas were accumulated in a special file helping industrious art students.

The library was divided into a classroom section and a section for guidance students with the use of a series of book shelves. Provine's librarian, Mrs. Eaton, commented, "This arrangement helped to achieve a better study atmosphere. Students should acquaint themselves with the additional equipment and facilities now available."

Counselors Dilate Advisory Duties

Provine's three guidance counselors initiated the school year by preparing schedules for 900 students. During the year their duties consisted of changing schedules, assisting new pupils, and offering sympathetic and encouraging advice to those seeking aid. Seniors received guidance in their college choices, in making applications to colleges, and in applying for scholarships. In addition to their advisory duties, the trio served as instructors of guidance classes.

One of the counselors, Mr. Lundquist, sponsored the Student Council and chaperoned delegates to various conventions. Mr. English and Mr. Easom headed the National Honor Society, a club seeking to promote leadership, scholarship, and service. This club provided a tutoring service to assist faltering students.

Sports Variety Spurs Student Interest in PE

With new ideas in the making and additions planned for present activities, the girl's gym classes worked hard to stay in shape. Under the capable leadership of Miss Sullivan and her gym assistants, the girls competed in interclass tournaments. Among the interclass competitions were volleyball, basketball, touch football, archery, speed ball, and calisthenics.

Teamwork and individual performance were goals of the boy's gym classes. Coach Richardson, head of the boy's Physical Education Department led the boys in calisthenics, football, softball, and tennis. The boys learned self-discipline, spirit, endurance, and group cooperation. Clubs that held the attention of a great number of gym students were the Gym, Letterman's, Tennis and Golf Clubs.

Hobby Clubs Aid Self Improvement

Provine's five hobby clubs — Auto, Chess, Horse Interest, Hunting and Fishing and Golf afforded students the opportunity to pursue their hobbies.

The Auto Club, newly organized this year, was sponsored by Mr. Norwood. They investigated the parts, and the mechanical operation of various automobiles.

Sponsored by Mr. Stevens, the Chess Club met weekly to improve their chess skill.

Members of the Horse Interest Club, guided by Miss Sullivan, held horse shows, entered horses in state shows, and heard numerous speakers.

The Hunting and Fishing Club, sponsored by Coach King, saw films about hunting safety and heard speakers from the Game and Fish Commission.

Chief Taylor headed the Golf Club, which promoted better skill and new driving techniques.

Three Phase Plan Aids New Drivers

Adding to its ranks the qualified ability of Mr. Stevens, the Driver's Education Department helped the young driver develop a skill in safety and urged him to understand the seriousness involved in driving.

The three phases of driver's education included the simulator, classroom instruction, and behind-the-wheel training. The simulator offered the novice the feel of an automobile and showed him his faults. In the classroom, valuable advice was given, and informative films of actual wrecks were shown. Behind-the-wheel training enabled the beginner to drive with an experienced instructor.

Sponsored by Mr. Vernon Gainey, the Safety Council attended a safety convention held this year in Memphis, Tennessee.

Work Placement — Training Purpose

Moving into its second year, Provine's unit of Occupational Training under the guidance of Mrs. Jodie George was selected by the Jackson State College Educational Department for observation of group counseling techniques. Many new devices were skillfully presented in order to aid each of the twelve participants in his own personal accomplishments as well as his social readiness.

The main objectives of the program were evaluation and diagnosis, personal adjustment, training, and job placement of the client. Each week during the year, Mr. John L. Embry, Special Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor, visited Provine. His job was to keep the Provine participants in constant check with the State Department of Education, supplying them with evaluation and job opportunities.

Meals Offer Variety, School Kept Clean

Varied, colorful and well-balanced meals characterized the lunch program headed by Provine's head dietician and seven cafeteria workers. Meals were served for approximately seven hundred students each day. Mrs. Cox, dietician, bought and planned the meals, taking a basic menu from downtown central office and adapting it to Provine's needs.

The lunchroom dietician and workers proved invaluable in providing the contents of boxes for Chicken Booster Club Suppers, and mouth watering plates for annual football banquet.

Clean waxed floors, sanitary rest rooms, and neatly arranged classrooms greeted students at Provine daily, as the men and women of the janitorial staff worked busily to keep the building in top condition.

Office Assistants Help Perform Routine Tasks

A variety of tasks were performed by the office assistants, who aided the secretaries in Provine's three main offices. Sacrificing their gym and study periods, these girls provided a foundation for an efficient and organized year even before the opening day of school. The girls scurried about answering the telephone, compiling the absentee list, and delivering messages.

Keeping track of books, performing secretarial work for Mr. Sessums, securing purchase orders, and distributing paychecks to employees were the specific duties of Mrs. Roberts. Mr. Purvis's secretary, Mrs. Gresham, operated the bookstore and was in charge of absentees and dismissals. Serving as secondary records clerk was Mrs. Anderson.

Hi-Y Boys Stress Service and Sew

Maintaining a HD Honor for the fifth consecutive year, Alpha-Beta Hi-Y oriented sophomores to the YMCA related club by presenting slides during the annual Sophomore Orientation Week. Slides centered around the trip to Blue Ridge, North Carolina, for the Regional Hi-Y Congress. This was attended by the sponsor of the club and four delegates. Other slides showed club activities, the Hi-Y Legislature, and the Gray-Y Jamboree.

School and community projects included tee-shirt sales, promoting Christmas tree sales for local Optomist Clubs, and raising funds to send clothing to the Columbia Training School.

Wednesday meetings included films, speakers, entertaining groups, and discussions emphasizing problems of young people and society. Spring activities involved Hi-Y members attending Hi-Y Legislature and Spiritual Emphasis Week (SEW).

Nutt and Murff Lead Team to Single Upset; Ram Spirit Undaunted Despite Losing Season

The arrival of fall also initiated Provine's 1969 football season. An intense school spirit marked the Ram's first game of the season against Vicksburg. Laden with sophomores at key positions, the Rams came up on the short end of a 13-0 score.

Showing improvement with every game, the Provine football squad and several hundred enthusiastic fans trekked to Brookhaven to meet an erratic Panther team. Two key touchdowns by sophomore Dan Murff and one by senior Lee Nutt led to a 20-14 upset win over Brookhaven. For his performance in that game, senior tackle Howard Doty was named Player-of-the-Week by WLBT.

The Ram football team closed the season with a 1-9 record and with most of its starters returning next season.

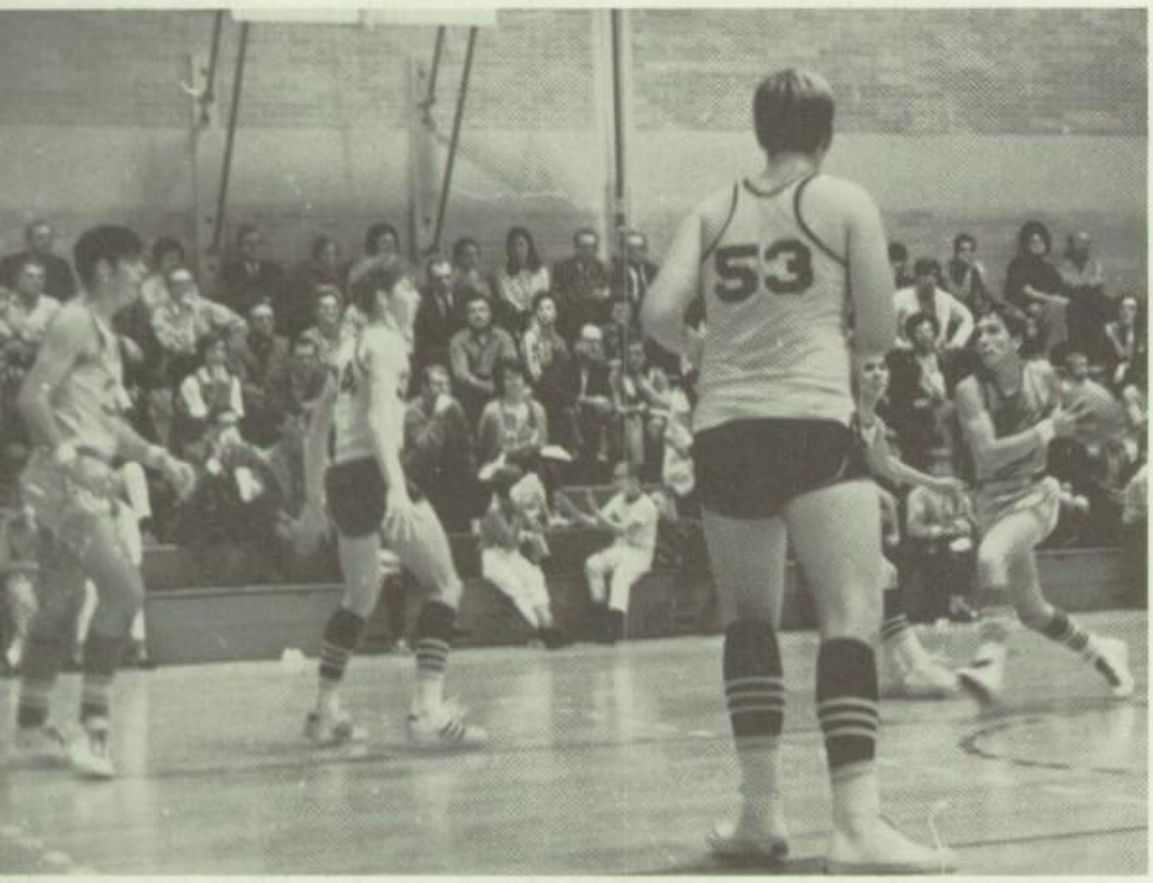
Provine Displays Valiant Effort in Roundball



Short on experience but with a surplus of spirit, the Provine Rams ventured into city competition at its greatest peak. The Rams played well elsewhere but could not manage a single win against a city rival. On the road Brookhaven and Florence met disaster at the hands of Provine. With two wins over Brookhaven and a victory at McComb, the Rams managed a respectable seventh place finish in the South Big-8.

The team, led by guards Johnny Barlow, Johnny Reid, David Mize and high scorer Mark Robinson, showed determination and a true fighting spirit.

Baby Rams were characterized by high scoring. Sophomores Freddy Dunlap and Carey McCoy, juniors Larry Hoover, Louie Little, and Eddie Daniels composed a winning five that only lost two games after Christmas.

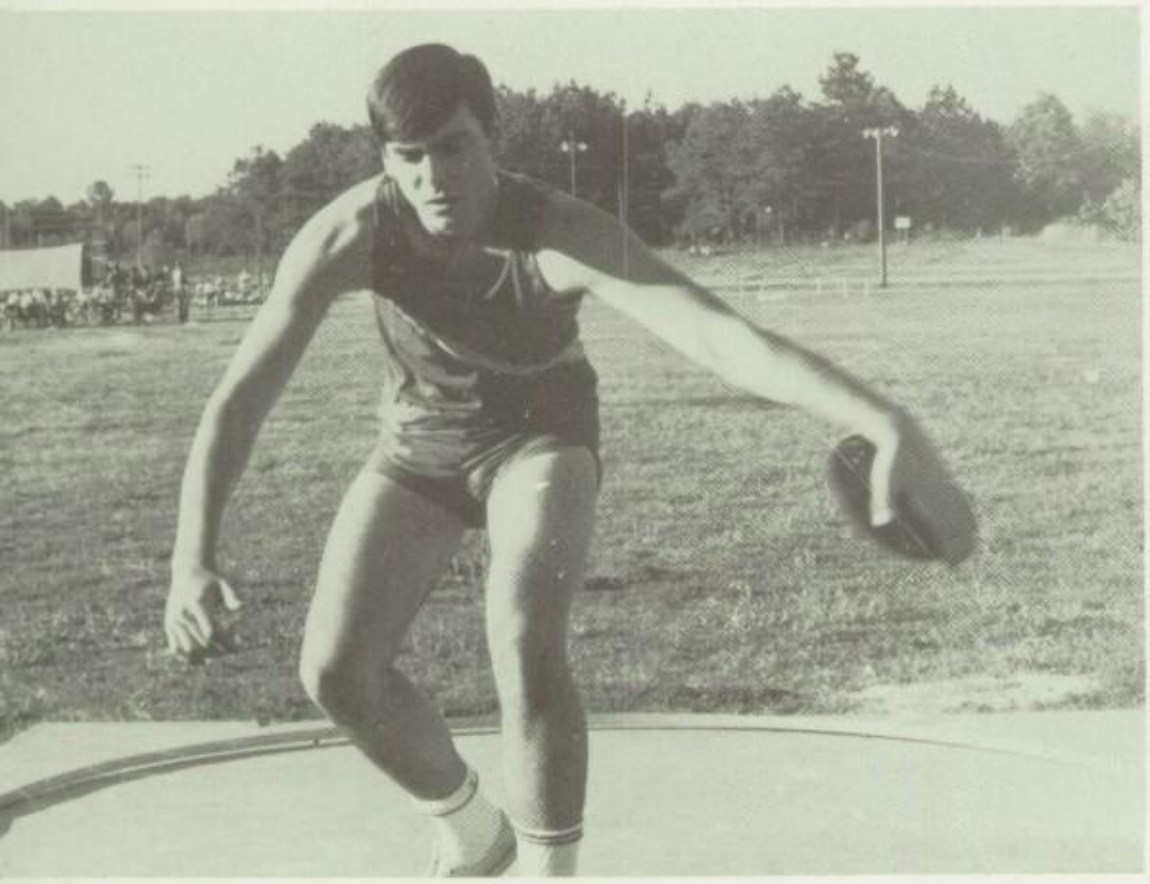
Junior Places Second in High Jump Competition



Hurdling into the 1969 track season, John Ladner and Bill King coached the fourteen talented cindermen.

Great determination was shown as they began to rebuild for the coming season. In the first spring meet, the Canton Rotary Relays, the Ram track team showed promise. Showing great improvement and team effort at all six annual track meets, Provine placed third at the city meet.

The annual District meet found agile Dewayne Carson gliding over the pole in high jump competition to a second-place finish.

The 1970 season found the tracksters preparing for another year of competition with other powerhouses throughout Mississippi. Boasting returnees in the high-jumps, relays, dashes, and most field events, Provine was assured of an even better season.

Rams Tie Cross-Town Rival For 3rd Place

Boasting a District 6-3 and City 4-4 record from an eighteen game schedule, Provine's 1969 Baseball team tied for third place against Murrah in city competition. The Ram diamond men steadily improved after the Callaway Invitational which ushered in the season. During the second half of the baseball schedule, Provine was victorious in seven of nine games. This improvement was due to more experienced players and the ingenuity of the coaching staff.

Taking over the coaching duties for the 1970 season, Ralph Gordon and John Richardson looked for an even better season with seven returning lettermen and a host of newcomers. Leading pitcher Johnny Reid and leading hitter Johnny Barlow were hopefully looking toward another city championship.

Tennis in Ram Territory Sustains Popularity

Tennis in Ram territory maintained its popularity as a favorite seasonal sport. A second-place finish in the city, including matches with Murrah, Callaway, Central, and Wingfield, and a lofty overall state ranking were the achievements of the team led by former champion, Buddy Miles.

Practically the entire team were returning lettermen led by Corky Lee, Louie Little, Ricky Pennebaker, Nan Tullos, and Debbie Young.

Team challenge matches were held during the year with surrounding Big-8 schools in preparation for the District IV and state tournaments in April.

Climaxing a successful year, the team attempted twice to meet Laurel in out-of-town matches only to have the matches called off by rain.

Volleyers Place First at V'burg

Preparations for a very busy year for the Provine Volleyers begin early in the fall. In order to raise money for tournaments, traveling expenses, and new jerseys, the team sponsored two interclass powderpuff football games.

The team, captained by Susie Farris and Ann Barnes and coached by Miss Patti Sullivan, spent many long hours practicing in the mornings before school.

The Volleyers represented Provine in four state-wide tournaments. They traveled to Meridian, winning second place. In January the team hosted a tournament at Provine, and they also participated in the Callaway tournament. One of the high points of the year was the Vicksburg tournament, where the capable Ram team won a well-deserved first-place trophy.

Provine Golfers Improve Quality

Led by veteran Coach Ben "Chief" Taylor, the 1970 Provine golf team played on a circuit of citywide meets, state meets, and the highly regarded Big-8 tournaments. Challenged by an excellent showing last season, the linksmen with only one returning letterman began their many hours of practice in late February, striving to develop the necessary finesse to attain a higher ranking in the state.

Competition among the members determined individual places on the squad. As each member participated in the various tournaments, he not only tried to reach a lower individual score but also to lower the overall team score.

Big-8 competition was scheduled for early May with Jackson being well represented with five AA schools.

Aries Staff Gives THANK-YOU!

The ARIES staff and sponsor would like to thank the following for helping make the 1970 ARIES a success:

Mr. Nicki Drake and Staff of Taylor Publishing Company, who helped in many ways.

Mr. Gilbert Ford of Hiatt-Ford Photography, who spent much time and patience with photography.

Mrs. Dorothy Foose, Mrs. David Wells and Photographers of Pippen Studio who gave of their time and ability.

A special thanks to the Provine administration and faculty, especially Mrs. Ann Gordon, Mrs. Reeves, and Mr. Hubert Staley.

Appreciation to all contributors who aided in financing the 1970 yearbook, the staff says, "thank you."

Thanks to the Staff of Balfour Company who gave of their time, cooperation and many encouraging smiles.

Appreciation to the Provine Student Body for their help and consideration.
